

Cecile Hemery

Cecile Hemery is a certified Career and Executive Coach, founder of Walayance, specialising in helping quiet leaders navigate professional crossroads and find meaning, impact, drive and recognition in their work.

With a passion for supporting personal growth and driving positive change, Cecile supports individuals in growing their leadership skills and abilities, better communicating with their teams and stakeholders or figuring out their next steps to grow their impact. Her approach emphasises self-awareness, alignment, conscious leadership and strategic thinking, enabling clients to untangle their thoughts, clarify their values, strengthen their posture and identify the path forward.

A former marketing and product leader in the Tech and Video Gaming industry, Cecile is an ICF-credentialed Professional Certified Coach (PCC), a Certified Energy Leadership™ Index Master Practitioner and a certified Cognitive Behavioural Hypnotherapist, and a licensed HeartMath coach.

With over 15 years of international corporate experience, Cecile believes that every professional has the inherent qualities needed to succeed. Her mission is to guide them in their transformational journey, harnessing their true potential. Known for her strategic and out-of-the-box thinking, ability to make connections, and generate insights, Cécile has helped her clients at various seniority levels to gain clarity, focus, productivity, and ease in their lives and careers.

When she is not coaching or studying toward her psychoanalysis degree, you can find Cecile enjoying her favorite TV shows, running locally and being generally ruled over by her cat. Originally from France, Cecile currently resides in the UK.
